Learning Mentor

Walk alongside a small group of students as they reflect, practice and take a next step.

8-week cohort · about 2 hours a week, plus preparation

ABOUT FUTUREWOVEN

FutureWoven is an eight-week learning and mentoring experience for high school and college students, offered by The Thread Movement. Students explore what has shaped them, discover strengths and try possibilities for school, work and life through quiltmaking. Each cohort brings together 20 students for two hours a week.

ABOUT YOU

- You listen more than you talk and enjoy asking good questions
- You have experience in school, work or community life that you are willing to share
- You can show up consistently for the length of a cohort
- You believe young people already bring strengths with them

THE ROLE

- Join weekly sessions with students during the eight-week experience
- Help students connect a reflection with an action they can try
- Encourage students as they build their learning quilt and portfolio
- Share what you notice with the FutureWoven team so support can respond

WHY YOU MATTER

> A consistent, caring adult can help a next step feel possible. As a Learning Mentor, you become one of the allies a student can name and return to.

THE TIME COMMITMENT

Orientation and preparation	Before the cohort begins
Weekly sessions	About 2 hours a week for eight weeks
Check-ins	Brief touchpoints with the FutureWoven team

Details are confirmed with you before you begin. Roles that work directly with students may require screening, such as a background check.

Apply online: thethreadmovement.com/futurewoven/volunteer/apply
Questions: hello@thethreadmovement.com