Project Volunteer

Bring practical skills to quiltmaking, a community project or the preparation that helps an experience come together.

Project-based · flexible

ABOUT FUTUREWOVEN

FutureWoven is an eight-week learning and mentoring experience for high school and college students, offered by The Thread Movement. Students explore what has shaped them, discover strengths and try possibilities for school, work and life through quiltmaking. Each cohort brings together 20 students for two hours a week.

ABOUT YOU

- You have practical skills to share, such as sewing, quilting, building, design, organizing or event support
- You like making things happen behind the scenes
- You are patient with beginners

THE ROLE

- Support quiltmaking sessions and help students learn hands-on skills
- Help prepare materials and spaces for sessions and gatherings
- Support community contribution projects alongside students and partners

WHY YOU MATTER

> Hands-on work gives students a way to practice skills they can see and touch. Your help keeps those experiences running.

THE TIME COMMITMENT

Preparation	A short conversation about the project and your skills
Project time	Scheduled around the project and your availability

Details are confirmed with you before you begin. Roles that work directly with students may require screening, such as a background check.

Apply online: thethreadmovement.com/futurewoven/volunteer/apply
Questions: hello@thethreadmovement.com